

YOUR ULTIMATE GUIDE TO
budgeting
FOR A DOWN PAYMENT

Your dream home awaits!

Buying a home is an exciting milestone, but saving for a down payment can feel intimidating.

Don't worry—we've got your back!

With the right budgeting strategies and a clear savings plan, your dream home is within reach. This guide is packed with practical tips to kickstart your savings journey.

SETTING A CLEAR goal

Saving for a down payment doesn't have to be overwhelming. We'll walk you through what you need, how different loan types affect your goal, and how to set a realistic savings target.

Your down payment amount depends on several factors, including the price of the home and the type of mortgage you choose. Here's a breakdown of common down payment percentages and how they can affect your mortgage:

- 1 Conventional Loans
5% down or more; 20% helps avoid PMI.
- 2 FHA Loans
As low as 3.5% down but expect mortgage insurance.
- 3 VA Loans
No down payment for veterans and service members.
- 4 USDA Loans
0% down for rural areas.

The more you can save for a down payment, the better your mortgage terms may be. But if saving a large amount feels unrealistic, remember that there are options for lower down payments as well as Down Payment Assistance.

UNDERSTANDING

your FINANCES

Before planning your savings, know where your money goes. Your budget is your road map!

Step 1: Track your spending

The first step in creating a budget is to get a clear picture of where your money is going. This might sound tedious, but it's crucial for identifying opportunities to save.

- 1 Gather Your Financial Statements
Collect your last three months of bank and credit card statements.
- 2 Categorize Your Expenses
Divide your spending into categories such as housing, utilities, groceries, dining out, transportation, entertainment, and miscellaneous.
- 3 Add It All Up
Calculate the total for each category.

Adjust Your Budget

Cut costs where you can and prioritize needs over wants. Little changes can add up!

Step 2: Identifying Spending Patterns

Now that you have a clear picture of your expenses, it's time to analyze your spending patterns.

Questions to Ask Yourself:

- ? Are there any categories that surprise you?
Maybe you didn't realize how much you spend on dining out or online shopping.
- ? Are there expenses you can reduce or eliminate?
Consider things like unused subscriptions, frequent takeout meals, or costly habits like daily coffee shop visits.
- ? Are there any irregular expenses to account for?
Things like car repairs, holiday gifts, or annual insurance premiums can sneak up on you.

Step 3: Calculate Your Disposable Income

Once you've identified your regular expenses, it's time to see how much money you have left over each month to put toward savings.

How to Calculate Your Disposable Income:

- 1 Total Your Monthly Income: Include your salary and any other sources of income, like side gigs or rental income.
- 2 Subtract Your Fixed Expenses: These are non-negotiable expenses like rent or mortgage, utilities, insurance, and loan payments.
- 3 Subtract Your Variable Expenses: These are things like groceries, gas, entertainment, and dining out. Use the average amount you calculated earlier.
- 4 What's Left Over? This is your disposable income—the money you can allocate toward savings or debt repayment.

Now that you know your numbers,
create a budget to maximize savings.

Choosing a Budgeting Method

Different people have different financial habits, so it's important to pick a budgeting strategy that works for you. Here are three popular methods to consider:

The 50/30/20 Rule

Allocate 50% of your income to needs (housing, utilities, groceries, insurance), 30% to wants (dining out, entertainment, hobbies), and 20% to savings and debt repayment.

The Zero-Based Budget

Every dollar of your income is assigned a purpose, so your income minus expenses equals zero. This requires you to be intentional about where each dollar goes.

The Pay-Yourself-First Budget

Before you pay any bills or spend on other expenses, you immediately transfer a set amount to your down payment savings. The rest of your budget is then allocated to your needs and wants.

Automate Your Savings

Set up automatic transfers to make saving effortless, like paying a bill to your future self.

How to Automate Your Savings:

Set Up a Recurring Transfer

Schedule an automatic transfer from your checking account to your dedicated savings account each payday.

Use a High-Yield Savings Account

Consider saving your down payment in a high-yield savings account to earn more interest over time.

Pro-Tip:

Automating your savings makes it feel like a mandatory bill payment, so you won't be tempted to skip it.

CUTTING EXPENSES

WITHOUT SACRIFICING

joy

Saving doesn't mean living miserably. Make smart choices and enjoy life on a budget.

Smart Substitutions to Save Money

MAKING YOUR savings WORK FOR YOU

Let your money grow while you save!

Open a Dedicated Savings Account

Mental Separation

You're less likely to dip into your savings for everyday expenses if it's in a different account.

Easy Tracking

It's easier to see how much you've saved when it's in a dedicated account.

Motivation

Watching your savings grow in a special account can motivate you to keep going.

Maximize Your Interest

Compare Rates

Don't settle for the first savings account you find. Shop around and compare interest rates from different banks.

Compound Interest

The earlier you start saving, the more time your money has to grow through compound interest. Even small amounts can make a big impact over the years.

Avoid Fees

Make sure the account you choose has no or minimal fees, which can eat into your earnings.

Use Windfalls Wisely

Put directly into your down payment savings account

Tax Refunds

Bonuses or Raises

Gifts or Inheritances

Set up an automatic transfer from your main bank account to your down payment savings account. Start with an amount that feels manageable and increase it as you can.

Staying MOTIVATED

Saving for a home is a long game, so keep your spirits high.
